Your coronavirus (COVID-19) test result is negative. You did not have the virus when the test was done.

You are not required to quarantine if you are travelling from a green list country.

If you are travelling from an amber list country, and are within the exempt category, you are not required to guarantine or take a day 8 test.

If you are travelling from an amber list country and are not exempt, if you took the test on or before day 2 of your quarantine period, you must continue to quarantine until you have completed the 10 day quarantine and received a negative result for a test taken on day 8. If you took the test on day 8 you may stop quarantine when you have completed your 10-day quarantine period.

You should self-isolate again if:

- you get symptoms of coronavirus (COVID-19) get an NHS coronavirus (COVID-19) test from www.gov.uk/get-coronavirus-test and self-isolate until you get the results
- you're going into hospital (self-isolating until the date you go in)
- someone you live with tests positive
- you have been traced as a contact of someone who tested positive

For advice on when you might need to self-isolate and what to do, go to www.nhs.uk/conditions/coronavirus-covid-19 and read 'Self-isolation and treating symptoms'.

It's a legal requirement to quarantine when you arrive in England. If you are contacted by the enforcement authorities or the police after you have received this negative result please show them this notification.
